FREE ONE-PAGE RECAP | THE NO-CAR GIG BLUEPRINT

I made over $8,000 in one month doing gig work, and I didn't use my own car.

Extra money for the holidays or an unexpected bill? You don't need to own a car to start.

I'm Mamie, a former rental car manager. Here's exactly how my September broke down.

September 2026: where it came from

| | |
|---|---|
| Expedite | $4,144.01 |
| Roadie | $2,346.92 |
| Zifty | $1,131.38 |
| Senpex | $387.84 |
| Total gross | $8,010.15 |

Now let's talk expenses

| | |
|---|---|
| Rental car (about $250/week) | $1,000 |
| Insurance | $160 |
| Gas (about $120/week) | $480 |
| Total expenses | $1,640 |

I fill up about twice a week at around $60 a fill-up. Gas is $6 a gallon where I am, so the hybrid keeps it at $480. In 2025 I rented a vehicle for a full month for about $550 prepaid. Rates change, so always compare.

So what did I actually take home? $8,010 gross - $1,640 expenses =

$6,370

One month. No car payment. No mechanic bills. (Before taxes and other business costs.)

Why I leave my own car at home

Most gig workers put thousands of miles on their personal vehicle. That means depreciation, constant maintenance, terrible gas mileage, and a car that's worth less every single day.

4 tips to make this work

- 1. Rent a hybrid. About 50 MPG saves hundreds on gas.
- 2. Book through Priceline and prepay for the best weekly rates.
- 3. Stack multiple platforms so you always have deliveries.
- 4. Check your credit card. Some already cover rental car insurance for free. Make sure yours covers work or delivery use.

Coming soon in the full blueprint

Which platforms to stack, the best days to rent, the best vehicles in the rental fleet to drive, insurance tips that save you hundreds, security deposit requirements at the major companies, renting with imperfect credit, and how to get a car for a month without paying for it all at once.

Join the list and subscribe so you don't miss it: gigworldtoday.com/rental-blueprint

These are my own results for September 2026 and are not typical. Your results will vary based on your area, the platforms available to you and the hours you work. Earnings are before taxes. General information only, not legal, tax, insurance or financial advice. Rental terms, deposits, insurance coverage and app rules change often and vary by company and location; verify before you book. Many credit cards exclude business or delivery use from rental coverage. Booking page may include an affiliate link.